COMMUNICATION FORUM

American Agri-Women serves as a communication forum among our members and affiliates across the country. Our network of members research industry issues, discuss them internally and engage in action to ensure long-term industry success.

Through grassroots action, American Agri-Women work to present the truth about production agriculture to the public, policy makers and the media. We focus on building the leadership skills of our members so that we are able to promote and enhance our agricultural industry.

A FORCE FOR TRUTH ABOUT AMERICAN AGRICULTURE

OUR VISION

We are a force for truth,
a reasoned, non-partisan voice for the Agricultural Community to the Public

CALL TO POWER

The late Sister Thomas More Bertels of Wisconsin spoke words that continue to inspire American Agri-Women across the country to work together and to share intentions that direct the organization's actions:

- to forge the true image of the farm entrepreneur;
- to foster collaboration within the system;
- to formulate fair market practices;
- to foster cooperation among producers;
- to fight oppressive forces;
- to form leaders.

Our power, as "the ability to produce effects," can be seen in legislation, regulations, consumer relations, industry promotion and education.

JOIN AND SERVE

American Agri-Women (AAW) is a national coalition of farm, ranch and agribusiness organizations. Organized in 1974, we provide a national forum for industry communication and promotion. AAW is a nonprofit, nonpartisan, public interest 501c(5) organization. Donations to AAW may be tax deductible; please check with your accountant for applicability.

Our partner is the AAW Resource Center. We work together with agricultural education efforts targeting producers and consumers of all ages. The AAW Resource Center is registered as a 501c(3) organization. Tax-deductible contributions to the AAW Resource Center are accepted year-round.

OUR MISSION

We, as women's agricultural organizations and individuals, unite to communicate with one another and with other consumers to promote agriculture for the benefit of the American people and the world."

MEMBERSHIP

Membership in American Agri-Women is open to any individual or agricultural organization that accepts AAW's mission and vision.
